CHICAGO, July 1.-Canadians celebrated at the World's Fair to-day the anniversary of the passage by Parliament of an act which united the provinces and formed the Constitution of the Dominion Government. The Canadian pavilion was the centre of attraction. Here were gathered prominent Canadians and all the foreign Commissioners. "Dominion Day" had been set down as one of the festival occasions, and all countries as well as the Exposition authorities were invited to join with Can-Ada in the celebration.

The order of the day consisted of a reception by the Canadian Commission in the morning followed by a military parade from the Canadian building to Festival Hatl, where patriotic exercises were held. In the evening. on the plaza in the Grand Court, fireworks ore set off, and a great crowd enjoyed the refreshing breezes.
(hicago's Mayor stirred up a succession of hisses in Festival Hall during the afternoon by carrying his annexation talk a little too far to suit the loyal Canadians. His centiments at first were taken as a joke, but when he went on to speak of the Union Jank being wrapped out of sight in the filds of the Stars and Stripes, his British-born autionse showed its disapproval by vigorous hissing, and the same unpleasant sounds came from the distinguished persons on the platform. The International Sunday School Convention was formally opened to-day, the object of which is to explain the working of the International Sunday School Association of Amer-1,200,000 Sunday school teachers, and 10,-000,000 scholars - At the dedicatory ceremonies this afternoon addresses were made by prominent proachers and laymen of this and breign countries. To-night the superintendents of the city gave a social to all visitors. There will be services to-morrow at 10 A. M. and Sunday school at 3 P. M. At 5 o'clock the Columbian guards will be given a talk, and at 7:45 evangelistic services will be held under the direction of one of Mr. Moody's assistants. Services will be held every morning between 7 and 8 o'clock, and evangelistic services every Levening.

Thomas W. Palmer will not resign the Presidency of the National Commission, as was announced to-day in a morning paper. Because of his wife's ill-health, Mr. Falmer wanted to be at liberty to go with her for a month or more to the seashore, and did not feel that he ought to leave the Commission for so long a time.

He was unwilling to ask for a leave of absence, and thought it would be necessary for him to step out. The feeling of the members of the Commission, however, is very much against cance, and thought it would be necessary for him to step out. The feeling of the members of it the Commission, however, is very much against his resignation.

The much-expected row over the White-white the Mational Commission did not take place to-day. Both contestants were there to prosent their claims, but there was not a quorum of the Commission present. The battle is therefore deferred until Monday.

There were only forty Commissioners in their easts when the clork called the roil at noon. That was fourteen less than a quorum at 1 o'clock four more had come in, but the Commissioners were tired of waiting longer and a recess was taken till Monday noon.

Late this afternoon Mrs. Pottor Palmer. President of the Board of Lady Managers, issued a call for a special meeting of that body to be held in the Women's building on July To ratify the appointment of women judges on the juries of awards. It had been thought that the power to do this lay with the Executive Committee, but the question having been raised, was referred by Mrs. Falmer to the law department of the Exposition. An opinion was returned to-day advising the President that a special session of the Board would be necessary. While the Board is in session the disposition of the money realized from the sale of souvenir colms and other matters will be considered.

The Paragunyan exhibits will not be withdrawn, and the foreign Commissioners will not be compelled to unite in closing up their exhibits through a sense of offended dignity. The trouble has been averted by the Columbian guard who arrested Dr. Hassler, the Paragunyan Commissioner making abject applicy, and by the Commissioner's in making abject application. Still another Indian village was opened in Bildway to-day. The features of this colony are the billiot-pierced cottonwood cabin in which Stitlag Buil and his sons were killed, broken rifles from the Custer battlefield, and old lian-in-the-Face, who is said to have killed ed Capt. Tour Custer in the massacre of the Seventh Cavalry on Little Big Horn. During the coming fortnight the managers expect to matall in their village a score or more of famous Sjoux warriors from the Standing Book agency.

The camp on the South Pond will be an exact reproduction of the camps of their fore-lathers. The parliament or "long house" of the Six Nations of the Iroquois will be transported from its home, which at present is a short distance from Atbany, N. Y. This contains many valuation relies of Indian wars.

Costa Rica is the next country to join the procession of nations and tribes at the Fair, and Wednesday noon Don Manuel Peralla. Minister Planipotentiary at Washington, will throw open the portals of the republic's building and welcome to it invited guests. This will complete the dedications by the Central American States, and that most-charming and of the grounds will be entirely ready for visitors.

li is reported that the Czar of Russia has ordered home all of his soldiers now at the World's Fair. No specific cause is given in the order. It simply says that all Russian soldiers are needed at home. The contingent here, which numbers not over thirly men, will start for Russia the early part of next week.

LIBERTY BELL NOT TO BE PARADED. Philadelphia Will Bring Back Her Relie from the Fair If Necessary.

PHILADELPHIA. July 1.-George E. Vickers. general agent for the Pennsylvania World's Fair Commission, will leave here at 9:20 o'clock to-night for Chicago and endeavor to prevent the removal of the Liberty bell from the Pennsylvania station on the Fourth of July.

Mr. Vickers has orders from Chairman Elfas P. Washington, July 1.—The indignation of the survivors of Gettysburg at the changes made in the historic spot by the electric railroad, the construction of which has been authorized there, is a drawback on the pleasures of the current anniversary celebration.

It should be observed that the railroad does not pass over any land belonging to the Memorial Association, and since this association and the States have secured all the most important areas, it may be thought at first that the new trolley road cannot seriously injure the historic features of the spot.

But the road is built on land purchased from private owners and in part adjoining that of the association, which had refused to sanction or in any way aid the project. Four illustra-tions in Harper's Weekly show the real relation of the railroad to the battlefield. The first is of the loop at the southwest of the wheat field. the scene of the second day's battle; and an uncompleted railroad cut is shown in the foreground. Another is of a high and broad bank, thrown up as a filling between Devil's Den and Big Round Top. A third shows blastings of rocks and a deep cut not far from the famous conse of trees on Cemetery Ridge, to which Pickett's charge on the third day reached, and which is unsurpassed, it equalled, in interest, by any portion of the field. The fourth is at

It is not necessary to overstate the actual changes made in order to show why the veterans are disturbed at this invasion by the trolley road. As the battlefield was about twenty-five square miles, taking the three days together, it has not been practicable hitherto to purchase and set apart the whole of it as a park. But the sort of occupation of parts of it as in farming, which existed thirty years ago, is quite a different thing from the building of a railroad, which requires the cutting of trees, blasting of rocks, and filling of valleys, thus materially altering the face of the landscape.

As described in the text accompanying the illustrations just spoken of, the trolley runs on the Emmittsburg road, between Seminary Ridge and Cemetery Ridge, to Peach Orchard, and then turns along a narrow lane to the Taneytown road, but, before reaching the wheat field turns again to the right towards Devil's Den. In taking this course, it makes a filling of three feet on ground over which Brooks's brigade charged on the second day. It makes a cut twelve feet deep back of Devil's Den. It has blasted, for material, granite rocks that served as shelter to portions of the combatants. Col. Bachelder, in describing the work, uses this language:

For the distance of over one mile before reaching this locally the road cuts through the scene of some of the most desperate encounters of the battle, in which De Trobriand's. Tilton's Sweetzer's Zook's. Kelly's. Cross's, and Words Unton brigades, and Kerzinse's. Semmes's. Wofford's. Anderson's, and Robertson's Confederate brigades, contended for hours. The railway cuts straight through lines of battle, forest frees are levelled, besiders and ledges bissted, streams are bridged, and the whole character of the field is changed.

It is further charged that on Little Round Top one of the gangs, in working, unearthed the bones of some of McCandless's troops, which were afterward, however, recovered and buried by one of the townspeople. In Corps, as it was on the third day, the road runs across the line of Stannard's Vermont brigade and of Wier's battery crossing also the position reached by Pickett's command. and burying, it is declared, under its road-bed, the spot on which Garnet died.

Of course the object of the builders of the road is simply to take the route best suited for their purposes, assuming that during the last thirty years the States, the United States, and the Memorial Association have acquired

THE DAY AT GETTYSBURG.

Hondreds of Veterans Visit the Place Where

They Fought Thirty Years Ago. GETTYSBURG, July 1.-Veterans are camping to-day on the battlefield where thirty years ago they fought. It is estimated that more than 10,000 people are now here. Every hotel here is packed to the roof. Railway cars or the sidings are filled. Gen. Sickles, who, as Chairman of the Gettysburg Board of Commissioners, has charge of the celebration, lives with his staff and guests in Pullman dining and sleeping cars on a side track.

Daniel Butterfield, Grand Marshal of the parade, has established headquarters on Carlisle street. Major Gen. H. W. Slocum, Major Gen. J. B. Carr. and Major Gen. Josiah Porter will take turns with Gen. Sickles in having charge at main headquarters.

of the Twelfth New York, whose monument on Little Round Top is to be dedicated on Monday, arrived.

With them came about 150 men of the Seventy-third New York Volunteers, commanded by Police Capt. McCallagh of New York city, and seventy-they exterans of the Thirty-ninth New York Volunteers, escorted by the Volunteer Firemen of New York city. This train load formed in line behind their band and marched into town to Gen. Sickles's headquarters, where they disbanded.

The trolley railroad from the town to the points of interest on the battlefield comes in for a good deal of attention. This road was officially denounced by the Board of Gettysburg Monument Commissioners in a special circular issued last week.

The read is not in running order, and will not be far a month, so that it is impossible to tell what the effect of the proposed boycott would be. The veterans who were required to pay $1 each for a rice in buses and carry-alls for a trip over the battlefield look with favor on the trolley road. Its alleged work of mutilation consists of a few attempts at grading where the earth is cut away two or three feet, and corresponding fillings in hollows. It keeps at a respectful distance from monuments and historic landmarks.

PERREILL, July 1.—To-day was the last day in camp for the Forty-seventh Regiment of Brooklyn. The new camp is com-posed of the Seventy-first Regiment from New York and four separate companies, the First of Rochester, the Fourth of Yonkers, the Ninth of Whitehall, and the Forty-seventh of Hornellsville. At 3 o'clock the Seventy-first Regiment reached the hill and was duly received by the Forty-seventh. Col. Francis V. Greene led his men in. The regiment is ac-companied by its chaplain, the Rev. Dr. Vandewater of St. Andrew's Church, who will Receiving no reply, he again pushed through the ring surrounding the Governor's party and said: "Come, old boy, come, give us a speech, Gov., old fellow."

His friends could not get him away. The Governor tried to quiet him by saying he was no speechmaker. To this Walker cried out humorously:

no speechmaker. To this Walker cried out humorously:

"Weil, you are a nice Democrat. I'll never vote for you again."

Gov. Flower and his party walked on, and later when pressed again for a short speech he told a story.

Once, he said, he was invited to address a rural crowd on the political issues, and at that time he remarked that he was no speechmaker. The men insisted on his talking, though, and he fratified them.

When he finished, a number of men advanced, and, selzing his hand in rapid succession, pressed it warmly and said: "We are going to vote for you, although we are Republicana, for you told the truth about your speechmaking."

The Governor stopped when he had told his story, but Walker, who had followed him up, again shouted out to him:

"Now, speak up, Governor, or else we'll lift that Panama of yours. Heid on to your watch or somebody will pinch it!"

The men near him remonstrated with him, and finally got him away.

Lieut.-Col. Hubbell late in the evening discovered a number of tents that had been raide and stacked.

Their interiors were in confusion. He gave orders to have guards arrest any one caught playing such pranks in the camp streets.

This morning Gov. Flower rose very early and walked all over the camp before breakfast, which he took in the mess hall with the troops. He was escorted to breukfast by Gen. Varian and Assistant Surgeon General Hamilton. As he entered the hall the men all rose and cheered. He left shortly after 8 o'clock with his party for New York.

C. W. Le More of the First Brigade Signal Corps was here to-day trying to establish a direct signal line to the top of High Thor Mountain, across the river back of Havorstraw. Gov. Flower and his party arrived in this city at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and an hour later started for Gettysburg in a special train on the Pennsylvania Railroad to take part in the dedication of the New York State nument on the battlefield. With him were Adjt.-Gen. Porter, Surgeon-General Bryant, Gen. Varian, Chief of Ordnance; Gen. Earle, Chief of Artillery: Judge Advocate-General Jenks. Inspector-General McGrath, Commissary-Gen eral Sanford, Inspector of hitle Practice Whitlock, Quartermaster-General West, Chief En-gineer Bickerts, and the following aides: Cols. Ruppert, Hilton, Sloane, Davis, Rogers, Monroe, and Magee. There were also in the party Private Secretary Judson, Attorney-General Rosendale, Comptroller Campbell, Secretary of State Rice, and Col. Hall, U. S. A. The most interesting guests on Gov. Flow-er's train were, however, two untitled veterans of the war, who, it was thought, would form the text of a lecture to be delivered by the Governor to the officers in charge of the bureau charged with furnishing transportation to Gettysburg survivors living in this State. The Legislature provided that all such veterans who wanted to attend the dedication of the State menument should have free transportation. The Gettysburg Commission, at the head of which is Gen Sickies, eatablished a sub-bureau to examine all applicants for the privilege. A refusal to issue a transportation order necessarily carried with it the implication that the applicant could not prove that he was really the voteran he claimed to be.

Some mistakes were made in the management of this bureau. Among those who did not receive a transportation order was a relative by marriage of Gov. Flower's, who was entitled to one. The Governor, when informed of the mistake, promptly invited the old solder to share his private car. This was the first case.

While the Governor was at Albany for a the war, who, it was thought, would form of the mistage, promitly indeed the old solidier to share his private car. This was the first case.

While the Governor was at Albany for a short time on Friday an Albany veterau, who is still suffering from a wound he received at Gettysburg, called at the Executive chamber and proved to the Governor that he had been honorably discharged, had compiled with all the regulations of the transportation bureau, and yet had received no transportation order. "Governor," continued the old soldier, with tears in his eyes, "it's not the transportation is want. I can pay my way down there; but it's the disgrace of having to go down after my claim to recognition as a veteran of Gettysburg has been disallowed, and having to sneak in with the outsiders. That's what I care about. I don't understand it."

"It's a d—d outrage," said the Governor. "It's a d—d outrage," said the Governor when you. But he is going to Gettysburg, and so shall you. Here, give me that paper you received from them.

"Taking the paper, Gov. Flower wrote across it: Give this man transportation in my private car to Gettysburg." There, "he went on, "if that don't get you." Gettysburg. Rowert P. Frowns.
"There," he went on, "if that don't get you down I don't know what will, and when we get there I'll straighten these matters out in short order or know the reason why."
And with a smile the Governor dismissed the reteran.

Several special trains besides the Governor's also leit, carrying parties of veterans to Gettysburg. Among the organizations were sixty members of the Tenth New Yor's Zouaves and fifty survivors of the Second Fire Zouaves, accompanied by a delegation of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association.

As no one seemed to own it and it had no business on the excursion, the committee decided to consign it to the waters of the East River. Accordingly the keg was holsted over the rail, and the next moment it dropped into the water with a big splash.
